The return of “Così fan tutte” with new voices on 15 January 2020

PRESS RELEASE

Lawson Anderson and Joseph Dennis to make their role debuts in Mozart’s School for Lovers, “Così fan tutte”

Dresden, 5 January 2020. From January 15th of this year, bass-baritone Lawson Anderson and tenor Joseph Dennis will interpret the roles of Guglielmo and Ferrando from Mozart’s opera “Così fan tutte” for the first time. In these role debuts, the two still new members of the Semperoper ensemble will test the hearts and loyalty of their brides Fiordiligi and Dorabella, performed by Iulia Maria Dan and Jana Kurucová. Ute Selbig and Martin-Jan Nijhof will also take to the stage in this production from 2014 by Andreas Kriegenburg, which features the State Opera Chorus.

The audience of the Semperoper will certainly enjoy the contribution of conductor Georg Fritzsche, born in nearby Meissen, whose impressive career continues to grow. Currently music director of the Kiel Theatre, from the 2020/21 season he is moving to Karlsruhe to take up the post of music director of the Badische Staatskapelle and the Badisches State Theatre. Alongside numerous engagements in the current season, Georg Fritzsche returns to the Staatskapelle Dresden after more than ten years for this popular production of “Così fan tutte”.
